COLLECTION OF HIGHLY INTERESTING CONFEDERATE RELICS AND CURIOS,

The Property of

DR. HENRY C. POPE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

PLEASE NOTE—I tried my very best to describe the items as carefully as possible, but I hardly think justice can be done them or their true value appreciated through the pages of a catalog; they must be seen to be appreciated. While some of the items seem insignificant, yet, as my friend Dr. Pope states, they all have their own interesting history. Every item is labeled and described by Dr. Pope, who personally obtained them from their original sources. Everything will be sold absolutely without reserve, but I ask you kindly to carefully consider the value of the items and make bids accordingly.

CONFEDERATE NEWSPAPERS.

Lot No.

105 "The Tensas Gazette," Vo. 1, No. 1; published at St. Joseph, La., May 19th, 1860. "A very valuable and interesting copy of an interesting paper at a very interesting time in this country." It has a criticism of the Charleston Democratic Convention which has just adjourned, and above all this has a full account of the celebrated prize fight (or "mill") between Heenan and Sayers, and other interesting news; very fine condition; very rare.

106 "Republican Banner." Vo. 48, No. 15. Published at Nashville, Tenn., April 15, 1861. This was one of the most powerful "Union" newspapers that was published in the South and fought secession to the bitter end. This copy is very valuable. Has a brilliant article against secession and dissolving the Union, and has a full report of the bombardment of Fort Sumter; military and naval movements and reports by telegraph from Europe, etc. A very large paper, full of interesting news of this date; in splendid condition.

107 Another copy of the "Republican Banner" of May 13, 1861. "A great copy of a great newspaper" of those stirring times. Contains report and substance of Mr. Bell's speech (candidate for President); military news and other items of interest; fine; rare.

108 "Richmond Daily Whig," July 25, 1861. One of the most popular and most influential Southern newspapers during the Civil War. Has an account of Battle of Manassas (Bull Run), call and organizing of Confederate troops, and full of other very interesting news and advertisements; very fine; very scarce.

109 "The Daily Delta," New Orleans, July 31, 1861. Dispatches of Battle of Bull Run and the N. Y. Herald's criticism of the battle, with other very interesting information of those days; very fine; rare.

110 "Southern Weekly Gazette," Fayette, Miss., Jan. 11, 1862. A small country paper, but it is a red-hot Confederate paper, and is most interesting. Contains ads for runaway slaves, etc., etc. A paper worth keeping as a relic of the Civil War. Fine condition and rare.

111 "Richmond Daily Whig," Feb. 4th, 1862. Contains full report of Gen. J. E. Johnston of Battle of Bull Run, report and account of the Confederate Congress and other interesting items; a very good and valuable copy of this great newspaper.

112 "Daily Mississippian," published at Jackson, Miss., May 28, 1862. This copy was the Confederate Administration paper, and in it is published many of the acts and resolutions of the Confederate Congress, with other interesting reading. Fine and rare.

113 "Daily Knoxville Register," Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 28, 1862. Has the Confederate Constitution; also the Confederate Military Exemption Act, an account of the Battle of Perryville; both very interesting and rarely printed in these newspapers; also a description of the New Iberia salt mines. (Salt in those days was as good as gold.) This paper is very rare, being printed on Confederate-made paper and with Confederate-made ink; very good condition.

114 "The Eastern Clarion," Meridian, Miss., Dec. 27, 1864. An interesting discussion on arming the negro slaves; full of Southern war news, etc., etc.; very good; rare.

115 "National Journal," Washington, D. C., Oct. 31, 1827. Peter Force, editor. One of the ablest editors this country ever produced, and his paper had an immense influence on public opinion in its day. This copy contains many interesting items and advertisements of the day; fine and rare.

116 "The Weekly Union," Washington, D. C., July 24, 1852. This was a very influential paper and advocated Gen. Pierce for President against Gen. Scott. It has a great speech of Stephen A. Douglass (the Little Grant), delivered at Richmond, Va., on July 9, 1852, together with other many interesting items, including an article about Daniel Webster; fine; rare.

117 "Lake Providence Herald" (La.), June 30, 1855. Edited by the celebrated "Sam Bard." Contains advertisements of sales of slaves and also advertisements of runaway slaves, etc. Full of all kinds of news and information of that time; very interesting and in fine condition; rare.

118 "New York Herald," April 15, 1865. Reprint. Giving full account of President Lincoln's assassination, with other interesting news of the war; fine; scarce.

119 "The Empire," Vol. 1, No. 2, Dec. 1st, 1876. A paper published in New Orleans in 1876, advocating Gen. U. S. Grant for "Dictator" or King. A great many statesmen and soldiers as well as private citizens at that time thought this was the only way to bring peace to the country. A rare and unique copy; in splendid preservation.

BOOKS AND ALMANACS, ETC.

120 "The Southern Woman" (or "The Second American Revolution"), by the celebrated Gen. H. W. R. Jackson of Savannah, Ga., and printed in Atlanta in 1863, by Intelligencer Steam Power Preses; 120 pages; describing Southern Women's bravery and exploits; the Confederate Naval Victories and exploits of Confederate war steamers and capture of Yankee gunboats, etc. It is dedicated to woman and the cause of the Confederacy. A part of the prorceeds of copies sold was donated to establish a Soldiers' Orphans' School. A highly interesting book in fine condition; rare.

121 "Three Months in the Southern States," April-June, 1863. By Lieut.-Col. Fremantle of the British "Coldstream Guards" (England's crack regiment). Published in Mobile in 1864 by S. H. Goetzel, on Confederate paper, and the back is made from wall paper; 158 pages. A very curious and very rare book. It is a diary and contains many highly interesting items of the war. The book is most reliable and important and created a great deal of interest when it was published.

122 "Great Expectations," by Charles Dickens (Boz). Published in Mobile in 1863 by S. H. Goetzel & Co., and printed on Confederate-made paper, and the book is bound in thick wall paper, (book paper being scarce in C. S. A.) The book is complete and quite rare in this style of binding and printing.

123 "Southern Poems of the War," collected and arranged by Miss Emily V. Mason of Virginia. Published in Baltimore, Md., in 1868, by T. Murphy & Co. (2d enlarged edition), 300 poems and songs, 500 pages. This is a very rare volume; it is long out of print and a good many of the poems and songs are only to be found in this book. Dr. Pope paid $3.00 for this book in 1880; it was then considered as very rare; worth far more today.

124 "Chandron's (Confederate) Spelling Book." Published in Mobile in 1865; 4th edition; 48 pages. By S. H. Goetzel, and used in all Southern schools. In perfect condition, never having been used; very rare.

125 "The Confederate States Almanac and Repository of Useful Knowledge for the Year 1863." Published in Vicksburg, Miss. An interesting and useful book of 100 pages; paper cover; has Confederate Constitution in full; list of Southern States; their population; governor; list of Confederate States and President's Cabinet; list of battles during 1862; postal rates; list of Confederate Senators and Representatives, and full of useful and highly interesting items of those stirring times. In fine condition and very rare.

126 Confederate Almanac, 1864. Published in Macon, Ga.; 23 pages. A very interesting little almanac, in splendid condition; quite rare; espepecially in so fine condition.

127 "The Last Message of President Jefferson Davis" to the Confederate Congress. Printed in Richmond at the time and printed on Confederate-made paper and Confederate-made ink. Highly interesting and very rare.

128 "A Confederate Map" of the Seat of War, 1861. Well drawn and correct. Printed in New Orleans on Confederate-made paper; rare.

129 "Extras," Natchez Courier (Miss.), April 17, 1861, and one of July 19, 1862. "Charleston Blockaded," Gen. McClellan's Proclamation. Both rare; 2 pcs.

130 Sheet of Confederate Official Paper. Kind used in all departments in 1864. Confederate made and ruled.

131 A Miss. Republican ballot or ticket; U. S. flag on reverse; used during the Reconstruction period so the negroes could tell it from the Democratic one; very curious and rare.

132 Confederate furlough for sixty days; an extension for 30-day parole; U. S. Military Pass; R. R. Tickets, etc., etc.; all very interesting and scarce; 10 pcs.

133. Steamship Ticket, Natchez, Miss., to New York, 1838; very rare. Two old Newspaper Receipts, dated 1797-1798, Boston; very curious; scarce; 3 pcs.

134 Civil War Paper and Envelopes; 12 assorted sheets and envelopes; Union and Confedarate; in colors; used during the war; all in fine and unused condition; 12 pcs.

135 Minature Copy of Cincinnati Commercial, issued September 7, 1874 for advertising purposes. Quite a curiosity; rare.

151 Penn Staff made from the flag pole of the Ram "Queen of the West." which was sunk near the mouth of the Yazoo river in 1863; a fine and interesting relic.

152 A Miss. Wild Turkey Call (a curious and useful instrument). This is the celebrated Miss. "Wild Turkey Call" used in the South before the war especially to call up the wild turkeys. In the hands of an expert he can bring the most shy bird up to him. It is made, I think, from bone of turkey or coon, and used to sell for about $2.50 to $5.00. This call was used by Capt. Thos. West of Miss., and was given to Dr. Pope by his son. In perfect order and very rare.

153 Genuine French "Lead" Pencil. This pencil is made from the real lead metal. Quite a curiosity; rare.

154 Bullets from the Battle Field of "Port Gibson," Miss. (below Vicksburg). Assortment of 17 varieties; a fine and interesting lot; 17 pcs.
